

ASIAN VIEWS ON AMERICA'S ROLE IN ASIA

The Future of the Rebalance

STRATEGIC RECOMMENDATIONS FOR THE INCOMING
U.S. PRESIDENT ON FOREIGN POLICY TOWARDS ASIA

A precipitous reduction of engagement in Asia would be detrimental to the interests of most Asian countries as well as the United States.

Maintain a robust, sustained, and consistent American presence in the Asia-Pacific.

Security and Diplomacy

Rethink U.S. strategy on the Korean peninsula.

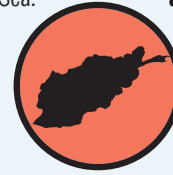

Ratify the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea.

Pursue a balanced approach towards China.

Work with India to address South Asian security.

Do not abandon Afghanistan.

Economic Cooperation

Revive the Trans-Pacific Partnership (TPP).

Support Asian regional architecture and institutions.

Addressing Asia's Critical Issues

Continue to play a leading role in nontraditional security.

Continue to project American "soft power."
